

Richard L. Buck, MD, MPH, FACPM

Dr. Richard Buck is an independent health care strategist based in St Louis. He writes and speaks nationally on leadership, governance, patient-centered care, and health reform.

He is the author of the Medical Leadership Institute monograph “Three Essential Skills for Today’s Physician Leaders.”

Dr. Buck serves as an Advisor to the Medical Leadership Institute, is one of the Expert Faculty of the Governance Institute, and served as an Advisor to the Patient-Centered Care Institute. He is a member of the American College of Physician Executives’ Taskforce on Medical Education.

During his 23 years as a Naval Medical Officer, Dr. Buck held positions in the “C-Suite” for more than 15 years, including 10 years of CEO experience. During Dr. Buck’s tenure as Commanding Officer (CEO) of Naval Hospital Pensacola, Florida, the hospital received recognition at the Navy, Department of Defense, state, national and international levels.

While at SSM Health Care in St Louis from 2005 to 2006, Dr. Buck served in the newly created position of Corporate Vice President for Organizational Effectiveness and Executive Director of SSM University. He was tasked with creating an integrated leadership development program for over 23,000 staff at 20 hospitals in four states. 