

Welcome to the new NACHC HIV Testing Redesign Virtual Office

April 2008

The purpose of the NACHC HIV Testing Redesign Virtual Office is to provide a national forum and one-stop portal for models, tools, and other resources health centers can use to incorporate routine HIV screening into their primary care programs. Some of the materials have been created and tested by health centers already engaged in routine HIV screening through a pilot program organized by NACHC in response to the latest HIV testing recommendations from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

Specific features of the Virtual Office include:

- A National Calendar of upcoming events related to routine HIV screening, including dates, times and relevant information.
- Important Announcements.
- A File Folder Section containing information categorized as follows:
 - HIV Testing Recommendations
 - State HIV Testing Laws and Policies
 - Step-by-Step Approach and Tools for Implementing Routine HIV Screening.

Please join and regularly visit the Virtual Office to learn more about routine HIV screening and how your health center can be at the forefront of this important testing and prevention strategy. Whether your health center is ready to take action now or is just beginning to think about routine HIV screening, you will find information to address your needs.
